

SEKENLIVING

A top-down view of various handcrafted wooden items arranged on a dark, textured wooden surface. The items include several round wooden plates and bowls of different sizes, some with smooth finishes and others with more rustic, natural textures. There are also wooden spoons, a fork, and a honey dipper. In the upper left, there are several carved wooden masks with expressive faces. A lit candle in a small wooden holder is visible on the left. A white ceramic cup and saucer are placed on a wooden plate on the right. The overall aesthetic is warm, natural, and artisanal.

Current world uncertain situation, we should still appreciate the life itself. In this covid-19 pandemic going on all over the world, there are many impacts that affect our life. The impacts are diverse from the social impact, environment, government until the individual itself. 2 years is a long time, we lost many things in that time and we still can't see the end of this global pandemic. Regardless, we need to stand up. We have a life to live. Life must go on. We believe the key to survive in this situation is how we appreciate the life itself. The way we move forward in the next goal with a new plan. It doesn't have to be perfect, life is far from being perfect anyway. Let's see from the bright side, it gives us more time to understand and prepare things better. Although this world is full of uncertain situations, but one thing for sure is we have to be certain of ourselves.

Stay awake to raise awareness on the most pressing environmental issues of our time is more important than ever! The world is changing, but not so slowly anymore. In this difficult situation we need to be awake of the things around us. We need to keep updated with all the information in order to decide the right choice to take. Many things happened in the span of 2 years including the environmental issues. Being awake to the environment right now is one of the best choices to consider. We can't live in this world alone, there are tons of things we need to be responsible with. A safe and healthy environment is needed for the sake of a better future. Let's stay focused, awake and be considerate to others.

We believe anybody can do a little something to keep this world alive! Right now our movements are being restricted but it doesn't mean we can't do anything. All we need to do is wake up and start to do something. Though this world is in a miserable state, but the fact that we are alive is enough reason to give light to each other. We can save this world. We can support each other. Being needed by others is one of the strengths to keep going. By giving simple action could make other people feel motivated and from that way we can slowly heal this world together.

Seken Living mid year 2021 collection bring us to appreciate the life you are already living. In the middle year of 2021 with a new collection to offer, Seken Living will guide you to appreciate the life you are already living. In this season, we prepare the collection to reminisce on the days when we can go out freely to enjoy the holiday, the summer time, and the leisure time we have with our close friends and family. We want to make a collection that brings comfort to the people and the situation they are living in right now, especially from their own home. Finding peace in your own home is needed when the world outside is in chaos. Giving appreciation to yourself for being patient in the life you have to live right now is important. From this collection, we want to assure you that being comfortable at home is one of the true values in life and it's not hard to make it happen.
